

2. Weight of the Ghost

Estilo: Pop-R&B suave com uma linha de baixo marcante e vocais sussurrados.

(Verse 1)

My heart is heavy now, it's like a hundred pounds
Walking through the kitchen just to hear the silence sound
I think I need a shower to wash away the scent of you
But every soap I buy just reminds me of what we used to do
I'm manifestin' that you're lonely, manifestin' that you're sad
Out of breath from all the memories of the "almost" that we had

(Pre-Chorus)

I'm re-reading every single undertone you ever wrote
Overanalyzing words like they're some kind of secret code
Front, back, and beside it, I've unpacked every line
Searching for a reason why you're no longer mine

(Chorus)

Don't smile because it happened, baby, I want you to cry
I want you to miss me until your throat is getting dry
You're supposed to think about me every time you're in your bed
I'm living like a ghost, but I'm living in your head
Yeah, your absence is a weight that I'm forced to carry now I'd forget you if my heart would only show me how

(Verse 2)

You used to be literally obsessed with me, or so you said

Now I'm the least sought-after girl, and I'm seeing red Is this some fucked-up romantic dark comedy nightmare?

Where you're findin' "purpose" and I'm just standing there?

Your paragraphs meant everything, but now they mean shit Just a bunch of big words for a mind that wasn't fit

(Bridge)

Maybe it's all in my head, some chemistry we faked

But I can't stop the crying and I can't stop the ache

I want someone to take my phone and lose your number fast

Before I'm tempted to fall back into a shadow of the past

You're so dumb and poetic, leaving wreckage in your wake

(Outro)

(I want you to miss me, I want you to miss me)

There's nothing left to decode, but I'm still on the road

A little fade out, a little less devotion Just me and this heavy, heavy emotion